Harpers Ferry

It is your responsibility to determine the safety of the suggested detour route and WhiteBlaze Pages or the ATC endorses any particular route, and the map is just for informational purposes. You are ultimately responsible to select a safe bypass route.

Continue to check the ATC's web site for updates on this bridge (www.appalachiantrail.org/home/explore-the-trail/trail-updates)

BRIDGE OUT

ATC Headquarters

These are only recommendations

Getting around the closed bridge in Harpers Ferry

Locals have been walking along U.S. 340 for many years.

WARNING

There's a (0.5) section south of Sandy Hook Bridge with a narrow walking shoulder.
Alternate option: Get shuttled around. See the following link for shuttle providers.
 Look on page 245 in WhiteBlaze Pages.

Directions for leaving in-town Harpers Ferry (ATC), to continue NOBO or SOBO on AT:

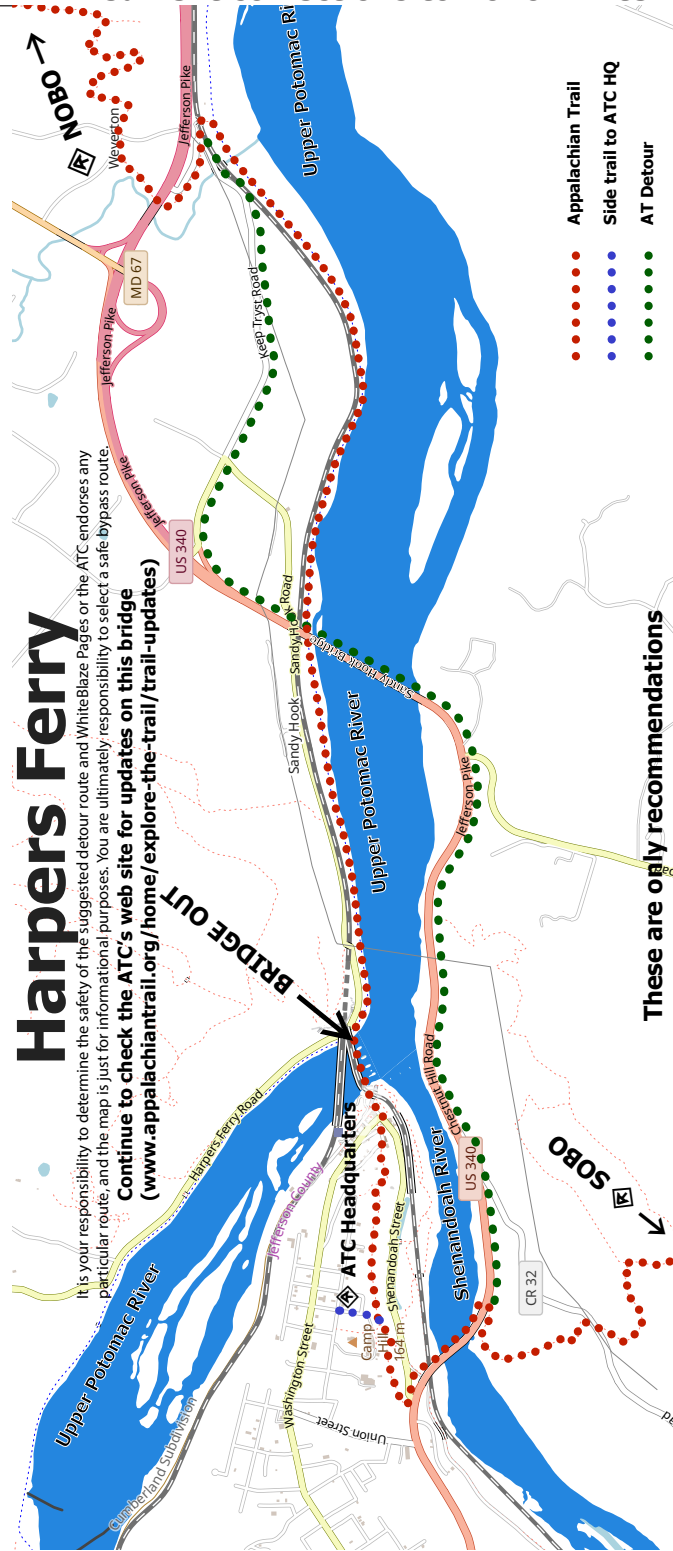

Head south on the AT for (0.3).
 At U.S. 340, head north (left) on U.S. 340/AT for (0.3).
 From here the AT heads SOBO (right) into the woods, if you're SOBO hiking this is where you go.
 If you're NOBO hiking continue on U.S. 340 for (1.7).
 At the south end of Sandy Hook Bridge/U.S. 340 continue across the Sandy Hook Bridge for (0.6).
 Take Keep Tryst Road for (1.3) until you run into the AT.
 Head left on the AT to go NOBO.

Directions for NOBO's bypassing Harpers Ferry and continuing NOBO on the AT:

At U.S. 340 turn (right) and continue and stay on U.S. 340 for (1.7).
 At south end of Sandy Hook Bridge/U.S. 340 continue across the Sandy Hook Bridge for (0.6).
 Take Keep Tryst Road for (1.3) until you run into the AT.
 Head left on the AT to go NOBO.

Directions for SOBO's bypassing closed bridge on the AT:

At Keep Tryst Road, head right and stay on Keep Tryst Road for (1.3).
 At U.S. 340 turn left and continue across the Sandy Hook Bridge for (0.6).
 At the South end of Sandy Hook Bridge/U.S. 340 continues on U.S. 340 for (1.7).
 From here the AT heads SOBO (left) into the woods. If you want to go into Harpers Ferry, and the ATC HQ, continue on the AT and follow the white blazes NOBO.
 When you get ready to leave Harpers Ferry just jump back on the AT and head SOBO.
